

FRASER

We are looking for a Trainee Motion Designer.

Let's move some stuff! We're FRASER, a young next-gen agency with global-edge to help companies in their transformation through support of data, strategy, creation and technology.

We're already collaborating and working together with two B2B companies and with one global automotive brand. We integrate best-in-class working methods, content and design to create disruptive product strategy and smart distribution.

We are looking for a Trainee Motion Designer to join us to work on ideation, development, visualisation and creative implementation of motion graphics and design.

What do you need to have?

- A completed bachelor's degree (or foreseeable degree) in the field of visual communication, media design, animation
- High creativity, good taste / design understanding
- A sense of style and a keen eye for typography as well as for form, color and movement in 2D animation
- Proper knowledge of the Adobe product range (After Effects, Photoshop, Illustrator, Premiere)
- Independent, innovative and responsible way of working
- Able to collaborate in team work

What awaits you with us:

- A creative and unconventional working environment with a skilled, familiar, warm and energetic team, based in one of the best locations in Berlin.
- Exciting and versatile tasks, customers and projects with plenty of room for independent work
- Fair working hours and compensation as well as diverse development and career opportunities

If you are interested, then please send us a link to your showreel / portfolio or website and a short resume with salary expectations. Please no download links & no freelancers. We look forward to meeting you!
